BACKGROUND AND LEGISLATION

BACKGROUND

From infancy, children embark on a journey to comprehend the workings of the social world, involving the intricate process of exploring and managing emotions, behaviour, rights, and responsibilities. Educators, through positive and respectful daily interactions, contribute significantly to supporting children in regulating their behaviour. These interactions service as a foundation for instilling a sense of interdependence and nurturing considerate citizenship in children. As a result, children acquire the confidence and skills needed to autonomously manage their behaviour, make decisions, and foster positive and effective relationships with others.

Challenging behaviours in children may stem from age-appropriate actions, attempting to meet needs, or expressing unmet desires. Environmental factors play a role, and support conditions contribute to children’s wellbeing. Positive adult role models help children learn socially acceptable behaviour, and support is crucial for children to express needs appropriately. A positive learning environment minimises challenging behaviours.

To guide children in self-regulation, it is imperative for educators to recognise that these skills evolve gradually and exist on a continuum. The application of these developing skills in children can vary based on factors such as mood, health, family circumstances, and challenging situations they encounter.

The approved provider has a duty of care under the Occupational Health and Safety Act 2004 to eliminate risks to health and safety of workers and other persons so far as is reasonably practicable. If it is not reasonably practicable to eliminate risks, they must be minimised so far as is reasonably practicable. This means approved providers must do all that they reasonably can to manage the risk of behaviour aggression (refer to Definitions) occurring at the workplace.

Behaviour aggression (refer to definitions) can have significant short- and long-term impacts on a person’s physical and psychological (mental) health. It’s not just violent incidents like physical assault which can cause harm – being exposed to lower level but frequent forms of aggression, like yelling, name calling and challenging behaviours, can also have a lasting effect on a person’s health.

LEGISLATION AND STANDARDS

Relevant legislation and standards include but are not limited to:

Education and Care Services National Law Act 2010

Education and Care Services National Regulations 2011

Equal Opportunity Act 2010 (Vic)

National Quality Standard, Quality Area 5: Relationships with Children

Occupational Health and Safety Act 2004

Occupational Health and Safety Regulations 2017

DEFINITIONS

The terms defined in this section relate specifically to this policy. For commonly used terms e.g. Approved Provider, Nominated Supervisor, Regulatory Authority etc. refer to the SCECEC Policy Definitions File.

Behaviour Aggression: involves incidents in which a staff member is physically or verbally abused or assaulted by a child in their care. This definition covers a broad range of actions and behaviours that can create a risk to the health and safety of employees and other persons in their workplace.

Examples of behaviour aggression can include, but are not limited to:

- biting, spitting, scratching, hitting, kicking, choking
- pushing, shoving, tripping, grabbing, slapping
- screaming, punching, swearing
- throwing objects.

Behaviour guidance: a means of assisting children in positive and effective ways to help children gain understanding and learn skills that will help them to learn to manage their own behaviour.

Behaviour guidance plan: A plan that documents strategies to assist an educator in guiding a child with diagnosed behavioural difficulties or challenging behaviours to self-manage their behaviour. The plan is developed in consultation with the nominated supervisor, early childhood teachers, educators, parents/guardians and families, and other professional support agencies as applicable.

Challenging behaviour: behaviour that can be described as:

- infringing on the rights of others
- disrupts others or causes disputes between children
- causing harm or risk to the child, other children, adults or living things
- is destructive to the environment and/or equipment
- inhibits the child's learning and relationship with others
- a child presenting as shy, withdrawn or excessively passive in a way which is inhibiting their learning and/or development
- is inappropriate relative to the child's developmental age and background.

Frightening methods of control: Disciplinary or authoritative techniques that instil fear, intimidation, or distress in individuals as a means of regulating their behaviour or actions. These methods often rely on threats, aggression, coercion, or the imposition of negative consequences that evoke fear or anxiety in the individual being controlled. Examples may include yelling, physical punishment, verbal abuse, humiliation, or any other form of coercion that induces fear or distress in order to manipulate behaviour. Such methods are generally considered harmful and ineffective in fostering healthy relationships and promoting positive behaviour development.

Inclusion Support Program (ISP): assists children with additional needs to participate in early childhood education and care (ECEC). It does this through tailored support and funding to ECEC services.

ISP supports services to:

- address barriers to inclusion
- build capacity and capability to include children with additional needs
- implement quality, inclusive and equitable practices

The program aims to:

- provide children with additional needs the opportunity to learn and develop next to their typically developing peers
- ensure all children have genuine opportunities to access, participate and achieve positive learning outcomes. For more information visit: <http://www.education.vic.gov.au>

Kindergarten Inclusion Support Program (KIS): Supports funded kindergartens to plan and implement a program that is responsive to the individual abilities, interests and needs of children with a disability, developmental delay or complex medical needs. Long Day Care Services can apply for the KIS program for their Victorian Government-funded kindergarten programs. If a KIS funded assistant is allocated to a kindergarten as a result of a KIS application, they will work as a member of the team delivering a kindergarten program that is inclusive of all children in the group. The KIS funded additional assistant should not work exclusively with the child identified in the KIS package application and is above ratio requirements. Not used to meet ratio requirements.

Program Support Groups (PSG): A program support group brings together key people to support the inclusion of children with disability or developmental delay, or complex medical needs, from the time of enrolment at kindergarten until they move to school. The group may include:

- the early childhood teacher
- the child's parent/carer(s)
- early childhood intervention professionals
- a preschool field officer
- medical practitioners, therapists or other allied health professionals
- a support person – if the child's parent/carer(s) chooses to use one.

Preschool Field Officer (PSFO) Program: supports the access and participation of children with additional needs in their kindergarten program. For more information visit: <http://www.education.vic.gov.au>

School Readiness Funding (SRF): Integrated within the Victorian kindergarten funding structure, SRF allocates resources to various programs and assistance measures aimed at bolstering the capabilities of services, educators, and families in fostering children's learning and development. Designed to provide supplementary support for kindergarten services, SRF endeavours to enrich kindergarten programs and offer tailored assistance to children, particularly those facing educational disadvantage, ensuring they start school developmentally on track. Educational disadvantage describes the challenges faced by children due to economic, cultural or social circumstances that limits their access to, or engagement with, education. Within the framework of SRF, kindergarten services are empowered to utilise allocated funds across three (3) principal outcome domains: Communication (fostering language development), Wellbeing (enhancing social and emotional aspects) and Access and Inclusion.
